Sadly did Harrison Smoke his cigar, As he returned from The hard eider war, Sighing, "In search of fame Why did I roam ? North Bend and Solitude, Welcome me home."

He to be President Hopelessly wept, Sadly he thought of it While others slept; Sighing, "To Washington Would I might go. There to be President 'Would not be slow!""

Hard cider conventions, Log cabins, and all Such childish inventions Have hastened his fall. His "Conscience Committee" Has labored in vain, And "Matty," our "Matty" Triumphed again!

Hark! 'tis the people's voice Shouting his name, As crowd after growd To the Ballot Box came, Singing "Dear 'Matty Van," Hither we come, We, as our President. Welcome thee home." S. & Co.
